SYNOPSIS OF POLITICAL EVENTS IN SAMOA FROM 1869 TO 1887. By Henry F. Poor. (Continued from the October Number) The Malietoas have ever been the acknowledged rulers of Samoa, having descended in a long and unbroken line of about twenty-five generations from the Tnisamau, (kings forever,) who traced their ancestry away back into the mythical past from the Tagaloa Alagi, (Gods of Heaven.) 1869. Malietoa Laupepa, the recently deposed King, being in the direct succession, was superceded by his uncle, Malietoa Talavou, Laupepa being a minor. In 1869, Laupepa being of age, the Tuamasaga district, by the advice of the British Consul and Dr. Turner, the English missionary, created Laupepa King of the Tuamasaga. This was because old Talavou hated the missionaries, and Laupepa had been educated by them. Malietoa Talavou being on Savaii, heard of this, and mustering a large party sailed over...
